My 134th budget: promises, plans and words to be forgotten

Saturday, March 30, 2012 by: Timothy W. Shire Tisdale:

People and politicians make mistakes and that's why we and they both need to listen to one another. Thinking you are right doesn't make for success.

Spring arrived this week and so did the provincial budget

Saturday, March 23, 2012 by: Timothy W. Shire Tisdale:

The geese are happy to be back and the writer of this story is not because of the 33% increase for prescriptions to people over 65 years old.

In the southern prairies the snow is gone and the temperature is staying above freezing.

What have you done for your country lately?

Thursday, March 8, 2012 by: Timothy W. Shire Tisdale:

My grandfather chose to come and make Canada his home. I am glad he did, its a good place and I would like to see it stay that way.

Act to keep the scandal from spreading

Thursday, March 8, 2012 by: Joe Hueglin Niagara Falls, Ontario:

This story calls upon the Prime Minister to get to work and root out those responsible for subverting the 2011 election.

for city hall

2001 - Dog Hide is in no hurry this year, Followup and Lawrence Solomon joins the big brains' club headed by Roy Romanow

2000 - Crop 2000 and Easter parade

1999 - SUN's strike and Tom Sawyer and the fence

Tim's Tip of the Day

Our lives often take some unexpected pathways and much of the time its not fair. But the successful person does what he or she can do with the circumstances in which they find themselves. My mom called it "making due" and that pretty much covers it. (Click here to see full size.)

Find of the Day

Federal scientists closely monitored during polar conference

Scientist who work for the government are not permitted to talk to the media about reports and articles they have published in journals without supervision by political commissars. In a recent polar conference scientist were told they could not talk to the press without a "media relations contact" present. This sort of supervision was common in the USSR and Communist China but unheard of in Canada until now.

March is inventory time

Friday, March 2, 2012

by: Timothy W. Shire

Tisdale:

Eight ender

Thursday, February 9, 2012

by: Lorraine Wisser

Tisdale:

Better than a grand slam in baseball, less common then a hole in one in golf, scoring eight with only eight rocks is the ultimate achievement in curling. This past weekend Lorraine Wisser and her team did the perfect end.

Arctic Air

Thursday, January 19, 2012
by: Timothy W. Shire
Tisdale:

One of the best things to show up on our television screens in 2012. This new show tells the story of a struggling airline in Yellowknife with an aggressive well educated aboriginal person taking a leadership role.

Canada, not a "giant national park" for U.S. but a "giant resource base"

Thursday, January 19, 2012
by: Joe Hueglin
Niagara Falls, Ontario

The Prime Minister is not amused with the U.S. government's rejection of the Keystone Pipeline but at the same time has presided over the relentless take overs of Canadian industry and resources.

Scrapping the Canadian Wheat Board is a crime

Thursday, January 19, 2012
by: Joyce Neufeld
Walldeck

The decision by parliament to close down the monopoly by the Canadian Wheat Board was against the law. Odd that this was done by a government so brash about being hard on crime.
