The White Doves of Yuma

Friday, January 25, 2013

by: Michael Townsend Yuma, Arizona:

Much like Canada the United States is a beautiful place but it seems to be entrenched in a level of violence that is part and parcel of what it is and what it will be. Michael is spending the winter in Yuma away from his home in Kamloops and thinks perhaps this may be the end of winters in the warmth and sunlight.

Tim's Tip of the Day

They are a real and present danger in bad weather on the highway but our economy has come to rely completely on the heavy highway hauler. Remember they can not stop and in poor visibility conditions they tend run over slower traffic as yesterday near Carlyle where one hit a stopped car driving it into the path of an oncoming semi, two women killed outright. Find of the Day

Experts find Irish state oversaw Catholic laundries for 'fallen' women: premier avoids apology

From 1922 until 1996 young Irish women were forced into a slave system run by the Catholic church. They were placed in the laundry operations by priests, courts, their parents and schools. Amazing for a seemingly civilized country.
