The White Doves of Yuma

Friday, January 25, 2013
by: Michael Townsend
Yuma, Arizona:

Much like Canada the United States is a beautiful place but it seems to be entrenched in a level of violence that is part and parcel of what it is and what it will be. Michael is spending the winter in Yuma away from his home in Kamloops and thinks perhaps this may be the end of winters in the warmth and sunlight.

2002 - Mr. Canada Peter Gzowski dies at 67, Do birds have a sense of smell? and the misconception of education as a means of making money

2001 - Saskatchewan Wheat Corporation, Parkland Photo Club, The triumph of blowing snow, salt cake and just a little longer than expected

2000 - Look Ma no wheels, CN Mechanises, Health minister out of touch out of law and cabin fever

1999 - Thoughts on education, knowledge, learning and the Internet

Tim's Tip of the Day

We have a lot of snow in Saskatchewan and most of Canada this year and it has to be cleared away. Though it seems like the manly thing to do, surviving is better. Take it easy. Shovelling the stuff for middle aged men and old guys is really dangerous. If you don't have a blower put out the cash to have someone do it or bloody well wait for spring. \(Click here to see full size.\)

Find of the Day

Canadians paying down debt faster, Equifax says

We keep hearing that with low interest rates Canadians are carrying to much debt. Well here is the good news, they are borrowing but they are paying off those debts fast. Credit card balances are shrinking and the rate of people falling behind by 90 days is only 1.19%. Not ony that there is an 11% decline in people acquiring new debt as they tend to stick with the lines of credit and limited number of cards.
